WARNING Strict copyright applies to this article and all of Dr Wright's articles

Let me begin with the repetition of the final part of my article about Betty Shine in order to introduce David Icke who lived yards away from me on the Isle of Wight. I observed him and heard his sayings over many years. He persistently said that he was Jesus Christ, the Son of God, the Messiah. He would walk into our Post Office and make this pronouncement. If I were to walk around this town and state that I was Henry VIII people would think I was mad or insane and is that what Icke is? Is he insane?

(See article Psychics are Psychotic)

And yet on the blurb to his book, Truth Vibrations, it is said that he was guided by master souls from other dimensions which has helped him balance the disturbed earth's energy system. In this book it is asserted that he has all the answers about God and Jesus. Wait a minute. He is, or was, Jesus. He claims that he has the answers to what happens to us when we die and can explain crop circles. He alleges that he is also able to tell us what steps we can take to reduce the physical and emotional impact changes about to confront our planet. His message is vital to every man, woman and child in the world.

Is it?

What are master souls?

What is meant by another dimension? What is this other dimension? Does he mean another world?

(See article Spiritual Dimensions)

The word dimension means an aspect or factor, or the scope and size of something in a particular direction

David Icke asserts that Jesus believed in and taught reincarnation. That is utter rubbish. Jesus taught that after death we would have eternal life whether it be in heaven with God and Jesus Christ, or whether it was in hell with the Devil. On death, the Christian would be forever with the Lord Jesus in heaven. Christians in heaven would not come back to earth as a ghost, or as a spirit or be reborn in another body. That is a very clear Biblical principle.

Icke states that the God that metes about punishment and retribution does not exist.

There was a time when the Jews were deeply distressed because of their years of disobedience to God and feared Divine punishment. They pleaded with Jesus to have Moses reappear and warn the Jewish nation of impending judgment, but Moses had been dead for 1500 years. Jesus said that people would not believe it if Moses were to come back from the dead simply because these things do not happen as it is not God's will.

Icke states that God is neither male or female but both. Does that mean that God is a hermaphrodite? The idea is blasphemous. God is not a person but a spirit. A spirit does not have a body since He is not a person. A person is someone with a human body, eyes, ears, legs, arms, blood and bones. A spirit does not have a body.

Even some in the Christian church are hopelessly wrong on the subjects of spirit and person. They say that the Trinity is God as three persons but God the Father is a Spirit, the Holy Spirit is a spirit, the Eternal Word of God became flesh, became a person namely Jesus Christ, and yet He was and is eternal as are the two other members of the triune God.

Who is David Icke to teach us about God? Is he a theologian? Has he studied the Bible, the Hebrew, Greek and Aramaic languages? Has he read the secular contemporary literature written by non-believing Romans and non-believing Jews evidencing the life, death and resurrection of Christ? Has he read the Roman records of the time where it is recorded that the Romans wanted to kill all Christians so that these murders would eliminate all the eye witnesses to the miracles, death and resurrection of Christ? Has Icke had a miraculous experience of Christ as millions have through two thousand years?

That he states that Jesus taught and believed in reincarnation shows that he does not know what he is talking about and, if he is wrong on such a fundamental issue, which he is, he can be wrong on other things as well. To the spiritualist, reincarnation is when a soul after death is reborn in another body.

It is clear that Icke has been influenced by Betty Shine and yet before this encounter he was a personable and likeable man, a goalkeeper for Coventry City although not a very good one. He was charming as a television presenter but then, after 1990, he went off the rails claiming to be Jesus Christ, the only Son of God. But most Psychics renounce the idea that Christ is the Son of God, so don't they renounce Icke? Icke then became scruffy, wore purple because the spirits told him to... but why?

He looked a sight and was asked why he dressed like this. He replied, "The master souls in another dimension have told me to do so!"

If I were to walk around dressed solely in bright yellow for a few years I would be deemed as insane.

In his book Truth Divided he complains about people on the Isle of Wight saying that everyone on the island has a closed mind. The truth is that he was so grossly objectionable to people and caused so many people incalculable trouble including driving someone to suicide, that he could not possibly stay. He was a troublemaker and Islanders recognised that he was clearly a fraud and probably insane, mentally ill and clearly irresponsible.

In a recent newsletter (April 2010) he says that all Islanders are either paedophiles, drug suppliers or takers, breed children to sacrifice, satanists and that the local police are the most corrupt in Britain and Ted Heath, who regularly visited the island was a satanist and child killer!

How has Icke helped balance the disturbed earth's energy system? What is the earth's energy system? You won't find that phrase in any dictionary in 2008 either!

I understand that people who are into spiritualism claim that they understand what these words mean, but those who are not into spiritualism cannot be expected to understand this jargon. If these spiritualist books had a glossary at the back explaining what these words and phrases meant and explained them in simple terms that would help. The fact that such glossaries do not insist only adds to the frustration. There is obviously a clear intention to baffle and perplex.

What is an energy system? A system is a method or set of methods for doing or organizing something, orderliness, how something has been arranged, the manner in which something is done, how a government works, a scheme or set of rules used to classify or explain and calculate, a network of communication, one's physical or mental condition or an arrangement of electronic or mechanical devices.

Which definition does Icke mean? Why doesn't he speak plainly? Is it because he wants to sound intelligent and clever?

In his weekly newsletter available over the internet, and for a fee, he makes libellous statements about people. He attacks President Obama calling him a puppet and that he should not be in politics, that the money he acquired for his presidential campaign was obtained by devious and dishonest means. Icke makes racist comments about Obama. I have heard Icke speak of his hatred for black people. He uses words that do not exist in our best dictionaries such as illuminati. You won't find that in any major respectable dictionary in 2008. Why does he invent words and expect the ordinary man in the street to know what he is talking about?

He also uses a word obamatise, another word that does not exist. What does he mean? We could guess, but would we be right?

Having known this man, I can tell you that he is racist and, because Obama is black, that may explain his libellous attacks on him.

There are those who have said that David Icke has been accurate in his predictions about the British government and the corruption in the Labour Party but that is not a revelation but an obvious observation of things that were bound to happen.

He explains that politics is a dirty game. He should know. He was in politics and was a spokesman for the Green party. He says that it was in politics that he began his spiritual journey. Then he read a book by Betty Shine which he described as honest, simple and totally credible. He immediately made arrangements to meet her. She helped relieve the pain of his arthritis which he had had since a boy. She said that one of his two cats had diarrhoea back at home and when he rang his wife this was true. Shine said that she had a visitation of a Chinese mandarin, Wang Yee Lee, who told her to pass a message on to Icke about earthquakes coming as a warning to the human race and that taking oil from the sea bed is destabilising the middle earth and that sea spirits will rise up and prevent men from taking oil out of the oceans.

What is the middle earth? What are sea spirits?

Betty Shine told him that one man, such as him, could change the world, that he would write five books in three years and that politics was not for him since he was too spiritual and, furthermore, that he would leave the Isle of Wight because the people there had closed minds and this move will take away fear from his daughter, Kerry.

(see article on Betty Shine)

I have already explained why he left the Isle of Wight and I should know. I was there.

It was not only politics that he criticised. He criticised Jesus Christ and yet actually said that he was Jesus Christ for some time. I heard him say this as did many others as he walked around our town.

As with many people, he was disillusioned with the Christian Church and had turned his back against Christianity and was seeking another set of doctrines to assimilate. The failures of the Church are many but that does not invalidate Christ or His teaching.

David Icke writes, "It is clear that the traditional views of God and the ways of the universe are fundamentally flawed." Then he makes the incorrect statement that Jesus taught and believed in reincarnation. He dismisses the Old Testament law such as an eye for an eye not understanding that it is God who takes the eye for an eye since God says, "Vengeance is mine saith the Lord, I will repay".

It is amazing how people misquote the Bible in an argument showing that they do not understand the scriptures. Icke says that the God of the Bible does not punish wrong doers. Icke makes other ridiculous remarks such as the parable of the prodigal son is an example of the way the spirit leaves the Godhead, learns lessons and returns to the Godhead. That does not make any sense. How can the spirit of God leave the Godhead. God is a spirit. Does Almighty God need to learn any lessons?

The Godhead is the Trinity, the Father, the Eternal Word who is Jesus Christ and the Holy Spirit but clearly Icke does not know that.

He talks about karma which he explains is the law stating that no one escapes the punishment of their actions. Who does the punishing? Icke says God does not, since He is not a God of retribution.

The work karma is a Hindu/ Buddhist word which Icke does not understand. It means that a person's actions which will affect his life in his reincarnation. Icke writes, "There is no sense of retribution in karma".

He talks about the Monophysites who rejected the Christian teaching on reincarnation but Icke does not know the teaching on this subject as we have seen. He makes another preposterous claim that Elijah was reincarnated as John the Baptist by misquoting Matthew 17. 11-13 where Jesus compared John the Baptist to Elijah, just as we might compare the style of a present day footballer with a famous footballer of the past.

David Icke does not quote the other New Testament passage where the Lord Jesus asks His disciples, "Who do people say that I am?" The disciples replied, "Some say you are Elijah, Jeremiah or one of the prophets". That does not mean that one of these Old Testament worthies was reincarnated in the body of Christ. It means that the Jews were comparing Christ to the Old Testament prophets just as I might compare an early work by Beethoven with Mozart.

Icke then takes on the guise of a medical doctor and pontificates about cot deaths and says that often the souls of cot death babies are spiritual teachers and these souls have to leave the body to teach adults lessons. What evidence does he have for this? An infant is an infant untrained and uneducated in the ways of life.

Imagine this. A young couple has difficulty in starting a baby. After years of trying the woman becomes pregnant and has the nine months of carrying the child and it is born to the delight of the parents. Then, some time later, it dies in its cot. According to some spiritualists it had to die to release its soul to become a spiritual teacher for adults. The spirits needed its soul. That notion is cruel and insensitive and yet Icke in his book condemns insensitivity

At some stage in his spiritual journey, that expression is also a misnomer, David Icke was told by the spirits to wear purple and that he had no control over this and yet he writes, "We have all been given the gift of free will and make all our own decisions".

The expression spiritual journey is misleading. Lexicographers, who are not Christian, point out that the origin of spiritual means the spirit of man seeking the belief in the God of the Bible and the truth about Jesus Christ in their quest for eternal salvation. But now, the word spiritual means a person's religious or non-religious beliefs. Spiritualism does not advocate the quest for the true God as a priority in its beliefs. Icke is not on a spiritual journey. He is on a journey into spiritualism.

His next chapter is Letters from the Gods in which he talks about the earth's energy system and how science does not believe it exists. He says that each planet is a pulse-point and sends its energy on to the next one and so on, as do stars. What is he talking about? He then says that the energy referred to in the Bible is the psychic communications of the Holy Spirit, the Christ spirit or, most often, the Light.

What Icke is saying is that Christ is a psychic. It is true that His acts are beyond both the normal and scientific experience, but to call Him a psychic along with spiritualists and mediums is outrageous. It suggests that He is on a parity with people like Helen Duncan, Doris Stokes and Betty Shine.

He then goes on to say that the world is changing and that the North will become the South and the East will become the West, the old ways are being reviled and he actually says that men will speak with forked tongues (one is tempted to ask, Are they Apaches?) and will seek only wealth and have no thought for the generations to come. There are many false prophets in the land (indeed, there are).

David Icke has made a lot of money. His books and his lectures are condemning the old ways and he is clearly prejudicial. His attacks on people are vicious and in his scurrilous weekly newsletter he has nothing good to say about anyone. As to all his pronouncements, you make up your own mind.

Now we enter another realm of the absurd. God is everything says Icke. God is that mountain, that table, that grain of sand, every leaf on every tree, every raindrop and snowflake and to take this hypothesis to its conclusion, God is every piece of toilet paper. That is blasphemous. God is good but God can be evil assert spiritualists. There is no such place as hell as God is love (and yet He can perform evil) and in the eternal life, the life after life, will have as occupants such as Hitler, Mussolini, Stalin and the rest. Heaven cannot be heaven if such villains are there. "Ah," say the spiritualists, "they are there but on a different level and at a different dimension".

The Bible states those that will not enter heaven includes sorcerers which is the New Testament word for spiritualists, mediums and those who conjure up spirits and are involved in witchcraft.

But spiritualists say that there is no Heaven but the astral plane. When someone dies they do not die they pass into spirit. There are many who believe that their astral body leaves the physical body which looks down on their dead physical body and they see a tunnel and a light at the end of the tunnel which spirits welcome them to enter.

There is no such thing as an astral body. Astral means of the stars or of the spirit. A spirit does not have a body. Astral means of the spirit ; body means of the physical. Astral body are two words which contradict each other. Consult your dictionary. It is as ridiculous as saying, That dress is entirely made of a beautiful red is a glorious shade of yellow.

Why does David Icke and other spiritualists use words and phrases wrongly and which are so utterly wrong?

But Icke says that in the womb we have two bodies, one we see and one that is etheric. I am looking at my dictionaries of 2008 and the word etheric does not appear in any of them. I assume that he has invented this word from the adjective ethereal which means extremely delicate or refined, or heavenly and spiritual. So what is formed in the womb for each child is the physical body and a second body which is heavenly and spiritual or does he mean refined and delicate?

Where does he get these notions from? This master souls from another dimension? What is clear is that what he says is not factual.

As with Betty Shine his books are all nauseating, narcissistic and self-promoting. He speaks of his going around the country clearing energy-blockages, charging up energy centres and learning about the mineral kingdom. I did not know that minerals had appointed a king.

The ordinary man in the street and those of us who have had a good education cannot understand what he is talking about, but Icke uses the cop out explanation... only psychics can understand these words, these phrases and other things.

He talks about the psychic power in stones and rocks and their healing potential but does not identify anyone who has been helped in this way or submit any other testimony or evidence to confirm any such healing.

Spiritualism is blatantly anti-Christian and the Bible states that the world is being deceived by spiritualism and that all spiritualists will be judged, condemned and eternally punished by God.

David Icke believes and claims as true that the human race was not created by God or by the process of evolution, which insists that all human life began with an amoeba in the sea. Some spiritualists claim that all human life was planted on the earth by aliens from outer space. Icke says that he, his wife and children originated from the planet Oreal which exists in another solar system and that this family were around at the time of the city of Atlantis which had aliens as their High Priests who kept the energy force and initiated others into the secrets of life. The Atlanteans could manifest and demanifest things and move things by levitation. As in the television programme Star Trek, when the astronauts could be beamed up and transported in seconds to planets millions of miles away, Icke says that the aliens of Atlantis probably had this power.

(See article on Atlantis)

Some spiritualists want us to believe all of this and yet can offer not one shred of proof, and yet they demean Christians who believe four basic facts namely (1) the God of the Bible, (2) the Eternal Word of God who became flesh as Jesus Christ, the only begotten Son of God, (3) His life, miracles, death and resurrection all of which has secular contemporary evidence in addition to Biblical accounts, and (4) salvation through faith in Christ which will result in eternal uninterrupted life in Heaven.

Icke uses more words and expressions not in dictionaries because they are invented words and expressions such as the Luciferan Consciousness and the Attaro Consciousness. He talks about the freeze vibration, another ridiculous phrase which is a further example of linguistic nonsense.

But there is absolutely no evidence of any of this.

At one time when claiming to be Jesus Christ, Icke then says that there was a time when he was with Christ and Icke perpetrates the myth that Jesus was married and had at least three children by at least two women one of whom was Mary Magdalene. He goes on to say that Joseph of Arimathea was the father of Jesus and that the Garden of Gethsemane belonged to him as did the site of the crucifixion. Icke, obviously, has not referred to the contemporary Roman records, does not know his history or the facts. He says that Jesus did not die but was offered a drug while He was on the Cross which made Him appear to be dead. Icke insists that the Virgin birth is a lie and that Jesus was born as is every other child. It is one thing to challenge the Bible but he is also contradicting proven facts in the secular evidence of the time and the evidence of hundreds of eye witnesses. The Romans made certain that Jesus was dead, supervised His burial and sealed the tomb. This is in the secular Roman records of the time and this was why the Romans wanted to put all Christians to death so that all the eye witnesses to His miracles, death and resurrection would be dead and unable to give evidence.

I suppose Icke will say that all these lies were revealed to him by the spirits of the dead.

The traditional churches will crumble says Icke and he may be right but it does not invalidate the truth of the Bible or the veracity of Christianity.

It is clear that psychics like Icke want to destroy Christianity and set up their own doctrines and want to rule the world or, at least, people's minds.

According to some spiritualists we are expected to believe that aliens are responsible for life on Earth and aliens are still in charge of life here and visit us to see how we are getting on. Spiritualists can heal where doctors fail, they can communicate with the dead, they preach reincarnation asserting that Jesus taught this, which He did not, there is no heaven but an astral plan and when a single child is conceived it has two bodies in the womb, aliens formed the city of Atlantis which, it is said, was destroyed 8,500 years before the time of Moses, that Jesus is not the Son of God and was not born of a Virgin, that only spiritualists can save the world, that planets talk to each other by energy communication and so on.

Icke is calling Jesus a fraud and the Bible complete falsehood. Therefore he is guilty of what the New Testament calls the blasphemy against the Holy Spirit which is the sin for which there is no forgiveness. This sin is the denial that Jesus Christ is Divine and the only begotten Son of God.

Spiritualism is all speculation and fiction but, tragically, some people believe it and many such adherents have two goals in mind, the dismantling of Christianity and their self promotion which could lead to their making a lot of money.

Many spiritualists have made a fortune and it is interesting to note what spiritualists do not tell you. For example, why did the Ickes divorce?

There is a wonderful actress, Shirley MacLaine, who fought for feminist rights and was into spiritualism and made outrageous statements such as, for example, that spirits or aliens drive her car and take her to functions. She has made the point that most mediums are women and that has always be the case. Women have all the answers!

It is feminists and spiritualists who state that love, care and sensitivity is the product of the female brain and that if men are caring, loving and sensitive it is because they have a feminine side. Consider my article on this subject which supplies medical evidence.

David Icke and people like Betty Shine are against Christianity and one day God will judge them. The enemies of Christ shall perish. The New Testament states many times that sorcerers (spiritualists, mediums and those that call up spirits and those who practise witchcraft) will be judged as evil doers and not have eternal life but, with hell, will be cast in to the lake of fire that burns forever.

But let us put aside the Biblical teaching, since, without it, there is irrefutable evidence to prove that spiritualism and its cousins is nonsense.

The point of this article is not to preach the Bible but to tell the truth, to highlight the errors and dangers of spiritualism, of which there are many, to reveal spiritualists beliefs for which there is absolutely no proof at all, to show how they use words and expressions wrongly, how they are frauds, self-promoting in a money making business, how they give false information and false hope to the bereaved and how they are irresponsible. This is not meant to be a personal attack on anyone but an attack on their beliefs with the hope that these people will abandon this dangerous nonsense and find the right road.

Brenda committed suicide because of Icke's teaching. Mavis died young because Icke was constantly telling her that her mother was speaking to her from the grave. Her mother was not even dead. Mavis ended her days in a secure mental institution and a padded cell.

I want to repeat the ridiculous claims of his newsletter of 18 April 2010, in which he rants about the Isle of Wight and all who live there; he states that the Isle of Wight Police are the most corrupt in Britain, the Island is ruled by Freemasons and Islanders are leaders in money laundering and drug smuggling claiming that 50 millions pounds of drugs go through the Island every year, that the Island is full of paedophiles, satanists and people who bred children to offer them up as sacrifices. He goes on to say that the former Prime Minister, Ted Heath, who regularly visited the Island, was a child killer and a Satanist. When asked to supply any evidence of these outrageous tales he refused, which says a lot about him.

A Satanist is someone who worships the devil but not necessarily in a religious sense. A Satanist is anyone who is against the God of the Bible and members of the Divine Trinity. A Satanist is someone who is wicked and corrupt and does this not refer to Icke himself?

David Icke is now stating that the moon is hollow.

Sadly, David Icke is back on the Isle of Wight.

He says that the Antichrist in the book of Revelation is a reptile. He obviously does not know what he is talking about and has not studied this matter and he is not a theologian. The Antichrist is someone that is opposed to Christ and Icke is to some extent. However, he should read the authoritative works on the Antichrist and eschatology by such experts as Dr F A Tatford or Walter Scott available from good Christian bookshops.

He has divorced his second wife Pamela because of her fidelity to the human species. I believe this is on his website.

He has said that the opening ceremony of the 2012 Olympic Games was a satanic rite and ruled over by lizards or other reptiles since we are all descendants of reptiles from the constellation Draco and that the Queen and other notables are reptoids. He then asserts that we are all holograms ruled by reptiles. This is on his website.

He insists that the Queen is fuelled by children's blood and says that he has seen her drinking human blood. This is on his website.

It is now said that his GP believes that Icke may be mentally ill.

If I walked around the town dressed in the costumes of the 16th century and insisted that I was Henry VIII people would say that I was mad. Icke said he was Jesus Christ and walked around the town saying this some years ago and over a period of time. Does that not make him mad and, coupled with his other sayings, does this mean that he is insane?

Einstein defined insanity as doing the same thing over and over again and expecting different results.

In legal terms, insanity is showing that someone has lost the ability to distinguish right from wrong, fact from fantasy and truth from lies.

It is a serious mental illness showing that the patient cannot distinguish fantasy from reality and usually cannot control his own affairs carefully or well due to his psychosis. Psychosis is a severe condition in which thoughts and feelings are so impaired that contact is lost with reality and truth and the patient suffers from delusions.

A man believed he was being stalked by some London gangsters. He was convinced of this and would not accept any other explanation. He hired private detectives and paid them handsomely but there was absolutely no proof that confirmed his claim. But he was not being stalked.

A girl lived alone but was convinced that someone was breaking into her house when she was out and stealing her knickers. A friend kept guard for her over a week and nothing untoward happened and yet, in that time, more of her underwear went missing and other items went missing as well and some items were put in different places. She blamed her loyal boyfriend of trying to drive her mad. In that particular week, he was on holiday abroad some three thousand miles away.

This type of severe mental illness means that the patient holds on to something that they believe to be factual but which is not true and, furthermore, has no evidence or logic to support that view whereas there is evidence to show that what is tenaciously being held is false. Some patients regularly repeat a falsehood in an attempt to convince others and to acquire mastery. Some wake up each morning with irrational fears and have a persecution complex.

Insane people are subject to impulsive behaviour and irrational claims. Icke is entitled to his opinions but they are not facts and much of what he says and believes is so absurd and unreal that it shows his mental condition. Does the Queen drink children's blood regularly? Is the new woman in his life a beautiful sexy reptile and that sex with her is so wonderful? Did Ted Heath kill children? Is Icke Jesus Christ or was he ever that? Is the moon and other planets hollow? Are we all reptiles and/or holograms? Is the moon a giant space craft? How is it that he alone can explain crop circles? Was the opening ceremony of the 2012 Olympic Games a satanic ritual? How could Icke have lived in Atlantis all those centuries ago?

This man makes a lot of money out of his predictions and writings. Is this his purpose?

I have been accused of victimising Icke and that what he does and says is nothing to do with me. Victimisation is to punish or discriminate UNFAIRLY about someone. Facts and other truths cannot be unfair.

We have a right to protect society and, at the least, warn people of danger of such people, some of whom may be so naïve as to be influenced by some madness and fraud. One remembers a girl who wanted to know that her late father was safe on the other side. Shine demanded a fee of £200 and wrote a full report about the deceased including his five years in the Philippines and other nonsense. The man never left the UK.

Why do a minority believe in him and the Betty Shine's of this world? Are they also mad or insane?

Some people will always have an interest in the sensational and absurd.

As for Icke, he needs help and that is the most important facet. Normal people will agree that he is, sadly, mentally ill.
