

SPERM BANDITS

David C F Wright PhD

Geoffrey had a DNA test which showed that a baby born to a young woman he did not know was his!

No matter how vigorously he protested, the Court ordered him to pay maintenance for the child since it was proved scientifically that the child was his. A third of his income went to this woman whom he had never met let alone had intercourse with.

Many years later, Geoffrey recalled that he had been intimate with a girl at a party and left his discarded condom in the bed and, later, another woman, who was on her own, entered that same room.

He clearly recalled what she looked like and deviously arranged to spy on her and the child. This was successfully accomplished after much research and waiting. The woman who bore 'his' child was the woman at the party who went into the room on her own after Geoffrey had used it for sexual pleasure.

It was now obvious. This woman had emptied the contents of his discarded condom into herself and become pregnant. It was the only explanation, but he was not believed!

Another example was the case of Howard. There were a group of girls at a party and they all fancied Howard and had designs on him. They plied him with drink. He was 'hot'. They dragged him off to bed, removed some of his clothes and sexually manipulated and stimulated him and the girls raped him and forced him to have sex with them, or some of them. He was outnumbered and somewhat intoxicated.

As a result, one of the girls became pregnant and could prove that her child was Howard's.

But Howard was raped. The Court did not believe him. Women do not rape men. It is physically impossible.

Claire was 32 and wanted a baby with Tim. If the truth be told she wanted sex with him. She dressed seductively for him, teased and tempted him with her appearance and told him that she had had major health problems which had resulted in a hysterectomy. Consequently, sex would be safe since she could not have children.

And so, intimacy took place.

She became pregnant. She proved the child was Tim's and applied for maintenance which was granted. For 16 years Tim paid for that child and yet he was deceived and tricked.

In a BBC investigation called From Here to Paternity, shown on 20 July 2004, several female psychologists, psychiatrists, doctors and social workers (yes, they were all women) revealed that in 10,000 cases where DNA tests were carried out, these resulted in 30% of the men who were said to be fathers proved that they were not and, therefore, 30% of the women were lying or 'mistaken.'

Generally speaking, life and the law courts seem to favour the woman and her side of any story.

(481)